The World's Three Greatest Books

By Sidney C. Tapp, F.R.S.

"The Truth About the Bible," about five hundred pages, $1.00. "Why Jesus Was a Man and Not a Woman," three hundred pages, $1.00. "Scatology of the Bible," one hundred and seventy pages, $1.00. All cloth-bound. These books are out of the world of the average man and woman. They are the dividing line between the physical and spiritual worlds. They are within the reach of all, and that is just what the original sin and cause of death. They are arresting the attention of the modern scientist, philosopher and theologian and people of all classes and are other books of modern times, and will probably do more to change the thought of the human race than any book ever written. In the history of the world these are daily giving the greatest workers of all parts of the civilized world.

It would rather be the author of the Truth About the Bible, Sidney C. Tapp, than to be the President of the United States. His own interpretation of the Bible as therein contained, is so daring and so original as to be unanswerable that the human intellect cannot stand under the weight of it. For indeed, it is the world's greatest work.

Dr. Tapp's books are not mere theoretical interpretations of the Bible, but solid facts that will make the world the most interesting and the most fascinating of all times.

—Prof. J. S. Harris, A. M.

"Dr. Tapp's works on the Bible will move to every part of the world. In philosophy and science than any other time, and will make the world the most interesting and the most fascinating of all times. In our opinion, to any nation that has ever lived, and will be a great contribution to the world's literature."
—Prof. J. S. Harris, A. M.W. A. Thompson, M.D. more to every part of the world. In philosophy and science than any other
interesting and the most fascinating of
all times. In our opinion, to any nation
that has ever lived, and will be a great
contribution to the world's literature."
—Prof. J. S. Harris, A. M.We have arranged with the author to sell all papers for these books. Send name and address to the dealer in books, paper and maps, and the same will be sent to you at once.

The Magnetic Power of the Uplifted Christ

By REV. W. W. KETCHUM
Director of the Practical Course, Moody Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT—And I lift up will draw all men unto me—John 12:32.

There should be no question as to what Christ meant by the expression "lifted up." It is not, as some would say, that he should be lifted up by the evangelist in the words for us. This is said, signifying that death he should die.

In three other places in John's gospel this expression "lifted up" is used. In the third chapter, the fourth verse, where we read: "When ye have lifted up the Son of man, then shall ye know that I am he." And in the twelfth chapter, the third verse, where we read: "Christ, therefore, in our text tells us that through his death he would come to him an added power, the power he drew all men to him, a power which was not evident when he was on earth.

Christ never had any large following then, probably never more than five hundred disciples at any one time. But today, on this side of the cross, millions follow in his train. His words have come true: "And I lift up will draw all men unto me."

What is this power? We have all experienced it. It is the attraction of sacrifice. Who is not drawn by it? I shall never forget how, as a boy, I was drawn to God here in the lakes, John Maynard, by reading the story of his sacrifice. He was pilot on a lake steamer that caught fire, and though the flames were raging, he did not leave his post. He was brave and steady as a rock. From the stern of the vessel, where passengers and crew were gathered, the captain repeatedly called out: "Can you hold out a little longer, John?" And each time, more feebly, came the reply: "Aye, aye, sir, a little longer." At last the boat went down, and all were saved except John Maynard, who died at his post. Who, I ask, is not drawn by such sacrifice? And if the sacrifice of John Maynard drew one's heart, who is there that will not be drawn to Christ as they know the story of his sacrifice and see the results of it.

Hearts are drawn the world over, as the old love story of the cross is told. There is no doubt about that. Millions of hearts have been drawn to God in Christ and to the life of the world, as it is the story of Calvary that draws human hearts. For there God in Christ made and sealed the problem of every human heart. Sin was there put away by his sacrifice; there he bore our sin in his body; there he bore our shame; there he made sin for us. It was a divine sacrifice meeting every human need. No burdened soul need longer stumble and fall under the weight of sin. Weary, worn one, why not yield yourself to the drawing power of the uplifted Christ? That is the question. Christ drew me all the time. Did he yield? That depends upon the man, for as true moral agents we have the power of saying, "No." Among the adduced words Jesus ever uttered are these: "To will not come with me that ye might have life." Note it carefully, "will not." It is a matter then of our will. Will we yield?

In a little New York state town where I was a student pastor a man sat alone one Sunday night in his home. Some time before he had devoted Christian woman, in paying him a bill, said, "Mr. —, I wouldn't be in your shoes for all you have in the world." And he had said this while she placed in his hands two volumes of the life of Christ, requesting that he read them. Time, that Sunday night, passed heavily on his mind. The words were away; he had nothing to do. Alas, he picked up one of the volumes and began to read, not in the mood of the hour but in the mood of the heart. It was the second volume of the life of Christ, and as he read he became deeply interested, then fascinated, then drawn. What was he reading? The story of Calvary. A tear glistened in his eye, rolled down his cheek, then another and another. At length, unable to restrain longer, he rushed out of the house, up to the little church, and just as the benediction was about to be pronounced, down the aisle came the man. As he reached the altar he cried aloud, "What must I do to be saved?" And there, that night, drawn by the uplifted Christ, he yielded himself to God and was saved.

On my friend, the student of Calvary, who was saved, I have written: "Will you yield?"

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By E. O. KELLER, Acting Director of the Sunday School Course in the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago (Copyright by Western Newspaper Union)

LESSON FOR JUNE 18.

THE PHILIPPINE JAILER.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 16:1-4. GOLDEN TEXT—Believe in the Lord Jesus, and thou shalt be saved, thou and thy house—Acts 16:31.

Dean Vaughn has said of this lesson that it is "one of the epitomes of the whole history of the gospel." The time was A. D. 50 or 60 and the place was Philippi, an important city, as before suggested.

I. The Damned Delivered of Demons (vv. 16-18). On their way to the prison place where they had met Lydia, the disciples met this maid who "had a spirit, a Python." Greek soothsayers were supposed to be inspired by Apollo, who killed a great snake at Mt. Parnassus and left it to rot. The girl was probably possessed of hysteria and thus spoke strange words and her condition brought much profit to her masters, who professed to interpret her words. This evidence of evil possession, evoked a sympathetic response in Paul's heart. "Her misery and degradation were a symbol of the degradation, as Lydia's sweet and beautiful Christian character was of the transfiguration of womanhood."

Stalker. Her cry after Paul was perhaps that they were the slaves of some evil, demonic power, the slaves of Apollo. The Gadarene (Lk. 8:28) used similar language. Paul did not at once stop her (v. 18), perhaps to avoid a controversy, but his deliberation made the girl's cry more of a challenge.

Wrought. Wrote out at last with her cries, but taking no credit himself. Paul spoke the words of power which have made his name famous (Mk. 16:17; Lk. 8:1; Lk. 16:17).

II. The Disciples in Prison (vv. 19-24). Of no other commercial value, the police officers sought revenge by indicting a mob to attack Paul and his companions. So today the liquor interests would seek remuneration for the loss of their "business," and so today the liquor interests, while the underworld tries to overthrow all who seek to restrain them. Paul and Silas were accused of "troubling" the city, for the trade has been interfered with. It indeed, went hand in hand with them that he was not only upon and finally through the convulsions of the epidemic authorities to be located in a filthy dungeon. Still, though the majority was against them, yet the mob was not right (compare 17:5, 12:11-12:23), and they had one on their side who was sufficient (Rom. 3:25).

III. Deliverance and Salvation (vv. 25-40). Christ before Phileas was accused of sedition, and these flogged disciples were likewise innocent offenders. (1) Prayer and praise (24-25). The prisoners sang hymns, "in the midst of that heterogeneous lot of prisoners they did not could not keep silent. The result was attentive listening by the other prisoners and by a loving Heavenly Father, who abode with them to ordain his liberator (v. 26). (2) The jailed delivered. The place was an shaken that every barred door was opened and the staples of the stocks were no longer seen in the liberator's hands. (3) The jailer saved. The brutal one is now the anxious inquirer, and becomes a good type for all of those who are out of Christ. (4) He saw he was lost. He was subject to the same death as his escaped prisoners. "Supposing" (v. 27) has darkened many lives, and our great sorrow is often imagined. Face to face with death, the jailer would plunge into an eternity for which he was not prepared. Paul's clear call brought the jailer to express his anxiety (v. 29), and it was not a trifling nor skeptically indifferent man who responded to Paul. He was brought face to face with two holy men, with God and with eternity.

Those to whom he came knew the law, had faith, and could meet the challenge of the life with confidence. IV. The Numbered Magistrates (vv. 35-40). The jailer's evidence for, hospitality and a changed home, which must have reached the magistrates' train. Their early command was to "let these fellows go." Paul rose to his full dignity, bent over, and said: "I have reached the magistrates' train. I do not allow them to cover their crime and blunder by stealth."

The magistrates were hable to lose the case without trial and had no honor in doing so. All that Paul required. "Thus the imprisonment turned out to be the triumph of the gospel and the glory of God."

Now did Paul hasten at last in leaving the city. After recovering strength to travel and encouraging the members of the infant church they departed, taking Timothy (17:14) with them.

Thus God gloriously delivered them who labored amidst men trials, and there was established in Philippi a church which was dear to Paul and which was especially kind in Paul, and in which is displayed the power and the victory of the gospel.

What is the power? We have all experienced it. It is the attraction of sacrifice. Who is not drawn by it? I shall never forget how, as a boy, I was drawn to God here in the lakes, John Maynard, by reading the story of his sacrifice. He was pilot on a lake steamer that caught fire, and though the flames were raging, he did not leave his post. He was brave and steady as a rock. From the stern of the vessel, where passengers and crew were gathered, the captain repeatedly called out: "Can you hold out a little longer, John?" And each time, more feebly, came the reply: "Aye, aye, sir, a little longer." At last the boat went down, and all were saved except John Maynard, who died at his post. Who, I ask, is not drawn by such sacrifice? Thus God gloriously delivered them who labored amidst men trials, and there was established in Philippi a church which was dear to Paul and which was especially kind in Paul, and in which is displayed the power and the victory of the gospel.

THEATRES

The Strain and Bailey Stock Company, is offering a changed bill at the Booker Washington Theatre this week.
Plenty of real music, full of melody and harmony, lively and artistic dancing and witty, dialogue capture the first part. The musical numbers are repeated in stanzas and in choruses and are all well received.The female is a western drama entitled, "Loul Thunders Revenge." The Strain again appears to advantage in the heavy job. Tim Moore, as a wandering tramp distributes a burst of fun with his antics. The other members of the cast are well up to the requirements.The entire program goes over nicely and the audience are well pleased.
There is one little Miss with the Strain-Bailey Company that has been attracting more than ordinary attention. This is Edna Young, a diminutive soubrette, with a versatility of art that would do credit to the best of theatrical stars. She is studying to be a dramatist, is delightfully vivacious, possessing a magnetism that always holds her in the center of attention. She is a graceful dancer and in the dialogue always reads her lines with expressive truth to life. Miss Young is a natural actress and will be a future favorite behind the footlights.Annie St. Clair is a member of the Strain-Bailey Company this week.

NEXT WEEK AT THE BOOKER WASHINGTON THEATRE

Muriel Ringgold and Ernest Watts will head the Booker Washington bill next week. This combination of sound to prove popular here. Miss Ringgold is a show in herself and Ernest Watts is an actor whose excellent voice and artistic work have been highly praised.Edgar Martin, formerly of the Martin-Motley Stock Company, promises a new treat in monologue comedy and humor.The Rock Nidgera, a supreme singing and dancing act comes from "Big Time."
One other big act will complete a big week's bill. Don't fail to see "The Secret of the Submarine" on Mondays and "The Social Pirates" on Wednesdays. Remember every "Social Pirates" picture is a complete story. It is not a serial. Charlie Chaplin pictures are a big Sunday feature.

MOVIE AND RIALTO THEATRES

the weather is agreeable.Booker T. Washington from the
